Electric Wristwatch Perfected By American, French Companies

CHICAGO, March 19 — (AP)—An electric wristwatch, hailed as keeping almost perfect time, has been perfected. It has a little electric motor inside, yet is no bigger than a conventional windup watch. It has a barely audible tick, no mainspring, no winding mechanism. A main secret is a tiny amazing battery, smaller in volume than a pencil. It runs the motor for more than a year. Cost of a new battery will be less than a quarter. It delivers power at an absolutely constant rate. It takes only 1-100,000ths of a watt to run the watch. The wristwatch was demonstrated by the Elgin Co., but only a laboratory model has been made. Simultaneously in Paris, the Lip Watch Co. of Besancon, France, announced an electric wristwatch. The two firms have exchanged information, but each did its own research separately. The Elgin invention will cost more, for some years at least, than wind-up watches, but price was not estimated. THE FIRST watches, possibly available within a year, will be for men, for the tiny motors aren't small enough yet for women's wrist watches. The watch is anti-magnetic, can be fitted with a waterproof case. The works consist of a battery, motor, and a train of gears to drive the hands. There are far fewer parts than the 150 in a conventional watch. The battery, or energy capsule as Elgin named it, powers a synchronously controlled motor, replacing the usual mainspring. The motor develops only 1-75,000,000th of a horsepower, uses so little power that electricity to light a 100-watt bulb would operate 10 million times as long.

Board Studies Steel Wages

Strike Is Scheduled For Sunday Night

WASHINGTON, March 19 — (AP)—The 18-member Wage Stabilization Board went into a marathon session Wednesday to frame recommendations for settling the big steel labor dispute. The WSB, having rejected an offer from its industry members to give the CIO steelworkers a 13.7-cent-an-hour boost in pay and other benefits, raced against time. A walkout of 650,000 workers in the nation's basic steel industry is threatened for midnight Sunday. The entire nation is watching the outcome of the dispute. Generally speaking, as Big Steel goes, so goes the rest of industry. A price hike or a wage boost by Big Steel invariably is reflected in other industries. CIO chieftain Philip Murray, head of the steelworkers union, was waiting to see the WSB's proposed solution before advising his 170-member policy committee at a meeting here Thursday whether to postpone the walkout.

KEY WEST, March 19 — (AP)—Democratic Chairman Frank E. McKinney suggested Wednesday President Truman may not run for reelection if a satisfactory truce is reached in Korea. McKinney told a news conference the Korean situation is a "paramount" factor in Truman's consideration. And he said his own opinion, based on conversations with the President, is that "his decision will be predicated on the success or failure of resolving the Korean situation satisfactorily." McKinney has just completed two days of talks with Truman. When he came here, there were reports some influential party leaders were insisting he should seek definite word from the President as to his intentions. McKinney said if Truman does not run the President will not attempt to dictate the Democratic nominee but will favor an "open convention."

McKinney, acting on Truman's orders, directed party officials in California to withdraw the President's name from that state's primary election June 3. Regardless of whether Truman plans to seek reelection, he appears determined to take personal command of the situation and carry out his original intention—to stay out of all primaries. He has called presidential preferential primaries "eyewash." This determination could not have been lessened any by the spectacular showing made in last week's New Hampshire primary by Tennessee's Senator Estes Kefauver, who grabbed all of the state's convention delegates away from the President.

WASHINGTON, March 19 — (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's amazing write-in vote in the Minnesota primary indicated Wednesday he may be on the way to supplanting Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio as the man to beat for the Republican presidential nomination. The general, still 3,000 miles away in France and still declining to openly campaign for the GOP nomination, showed amazing strength in the Minnesota poll. Those "amazed" were the election "experts" and the professional politicians. Apparently there was little doubt in the mind of the fellow who counts—John Q. Voter. And here is how John voted: Republican ballot: 2,733 of 3,769 precincts give: Slettedahl 19,075; Stassen 110,735; write-ins: Eisenhower 98,616; MacArthur 1,383; Taft 21,534; Warren 4,685. Democratic ballot: 2,733 of 3,769 precincts give: Humphrey 88,466; write-ins: Kefauver 17,489; Truman 3,121. In Eau Claire, Wis., Taft declined to comment on the results of the Minnesota primary.

MUNSAN, March 19 — (AP)—Allied spokesmen reported truce negotiations neared agreement Wednesday on the ten points of entry to be used during a Korean armistice. United Nations negotiators proposed a compromise. The Communists promised to think it over. At the end of their 53-minute discussion, Col. Andrew J. Kinney said: "It appears that we are in agreement on the better part of the port question." Another group of staff officers met for only a few minutes because neither side could answer a series of questions asked previously by the other concerning exchange of prisoners. Unverified rumors circulated around Panmunjom that some new step was in the making to break the long deadlock over prisoners.

COMMUNIST newsmen, who often reflect the view of Red delegates, talked of a truce agreement in three or four weeks. Three major disagreements stand in the way of an armistice. There has been no indication a solution was near on any. The key disputes: 1. Voluntary repatriation of prisoners as demanded by the Allies versus forced repatriation demanded by the Reds. 2. The question of whether Communists should be allowed to repair their damaged airfields during a truce. 3. Communist insistence on Soviet Russia as a neutral nation to supervise an armistice and UN refusal to consider it. Meanwhile, outnumbered American Sabre pilots damaged two Red Mig-15s in a jet battle fought above the clouds of Northwest Korea. Eighteen Sabres fought 36 Migs in a 15-minute afternoon battle that ranged up to seven miles above the ground. Shooting Star jet pilots reported they started landslides with their 1,000 pound bombs, burying large sections of Red railway tracks under tons of dirt. Rain storms grounded the planes during the morning and soaked the quiet battlefield.

Council Gives Approval Of Fluoridation System

Circleville appears destined to have a fluoridation program in operation in the near future. City council Tuesday night gave whole-hearted approval to a plan of fluoridation offered by the Circleville Kiwanis Club. Kiwanians, who have put in eight months' research on the value of introducing fluorine into the water supply of the city as a dental health measure, met Monday with council to discuss the program. At that time, council was informed of all of the data uncovered by the Kiwanis Club during its research program. Armed with those facts, councilmen Tuesday lost little time in approving the program. A COMMUNICATION from Kiwanis asked council to approve a resolution for the program, which is designed to retard tooth decay, and at the same time the letter outlined the procedure for beginning the project here. By approving the program, council took the first step in the program. Kiwanis earlier had received necessary endorsements from the Pickaway County Medical Society and the Rehwinkle Dental Society, to which local dentists belong. Next step will be mapping plans for an installation to introduce the fluorine into the drinking supply, and submitting those plans to the state department of health for final approval. In its letter, Kiwanis stated it would provide funds for installation of the equipment, as long as it did not exceed $500.

Harrod GI Still Sought In Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 19 — (AP)—Pvt. Eugene F. Walters, No. 1 suspect in the one-hour abduction of an American high school girl here Feb. 3, is still at large. His disappearance set off the biggest manhunt in postwar German history. Mamie Ruth Shelton, 18, stepdaughter of Master Sgt. Franklin B. Burns of Hot Springs, Va., was kept in a car for an hour by a gunman in U. S. uniform who molested but did not rape her. Walters, a 25-year-old divorced father of two children, went AWOL from his unit in Hanau, near here, the day before. He is from Harrod, O.

Servicemen Rush Knot-Tying With Their Oriental Brides

TOKYO, March 19 — (AP)—Hundreds of American servicemen married Japanese girls Wednesday—just in time to beat the deadline for taking their bride home to the United States. James B. Pilcher, U. S. consul general, estimated the last-day rush of civil ceremonies at six consular offices increased the married to Japanese to 8,000. Servicemen had to be married by the deadline to benefit from a law which enables them to take their Oriental brides to the U. S. Many of the couples brought children. Most were born after a Japanese marriage ceremony. "I have to register my baby here," Air Force Sgt. George Miller of Cincinnati, told a State Department clerk after his marriage to a pretty Japanese. "He isn't even registered with the Japanese government, yet. He's three months old. He could just get lost and nobody would know it." "While we were getting married—down there at the other counter—I had to stop and change his pants."

A few didn't make the deadline. Chizuko Fukimoto, a nicely-dressed plain-looking woman, waited at the front door of the Tokyo consulate until 2:15 p. m. for her sweetheart to arrive from Korea. He never got there. Ninety-five soldiers, sailors and Marines were married in the Tokyo consulate. Similar numbers stood beside their fiancées in consular offices in Yokohama, Nagoya, Kobe, Fukuoka and Sapporo and said, "I do" to this question: "Do you solemnly swear that according to the laws of your state you are of legal marriageable age and there is no hindrance, legal or otherwise, to your uniting in marriage with this girl?" That's all there was. Some of the couples planned religious ceremonies later.

They could point to a demonstration of popular support seldom equaled at the polls, where voters usually find it much easier to place an "X" beside the name of a candidate already on the ballot than to write in some one else's name. The startling success of the last-minute write-in drive for Eisenhower in Minnesota may spark a similar effort in Wisconsin's April 1 primary, if the law there permits it. In Wisconsin, voting will be only on delegates supporting candidates who have filed affidavits that they intend to seek the nomination at the national conventions. Minnesota did not require the candidate's consent.

Lee Dunkle, 45, Seriously Injured By Shotgun Blast

Leland Dunkle, 45, of Circleville Route 2, was listed in serious condition Wednesday after having suffered a blast from a shotgun late Tuesday. Officials said Dunkle was believed to have been accidentally wounded at about noon Tuesday as he hunted pigeons on his farm. Blast from his 16-gauge shotgun ripped into his body from the rear, striking his left side just below the ribs. Dunkle's body was found lying in a pool of blood in the kitchen of his farm home by Mason Thompson, Columbus vacuum cleaner salesman. Thompson told Pickaway County officials he had rapped on the door of the Dunkle kitchen at about 3 p. m. Tuesday when he noticed the man lying on the floor.

THE SALESMAN said he entered the kitchen and asked Dunkle what had happened. Thompson told Sheriff Charles Radcliff that Dunkle stated he had been hunting pigeons. Thompson then telephoned central and asked to have an ambulance sent to the farm home. The sheriff's department was not notified for several hours. While awaiting the ambulance, Dunkle told the vacuum salesman the accident had happened about three hours earlier. Investigating, the sheriff's office discovered Dunkle's 16-gauge shotgun leaning against a fence in the barnyard, about 200 feet from the house, and a pool of blood was found in the Dunkle garage. Authorities said more blood was found near the pump gun, while one empty shell was found on the ground nearby and an empty shell was discovered in the chamber of the weapon. Theorizing, officials said the local man, who worked as parts department head for Harden Chevrolet Co., might have been wounded while climbing the barnyard fence after having made one shot. Dunkle was rushed into Berger hospital for emergency treatment and later was taken to University hospital, Columbus. Attaches in the Columbus hospital Wednesday noon said the local man had been placed on the "danger" list. He is in room 783.

Tar Heel GOP Vote Results Are Disputed

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 19 — (AP)—Conflicting claims over the division of North Carolina's 26 national convention votes enlivened a rousing state Republican convention here Tuesday. An Associated Press poll of the delegates' personal preferences showed Tar Heels leaning toward Sen. Robert A. Taft. The poll gave Taft 13, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower six, and seven uncommitted or not expressing a preference. But Rep. Carroll Reece (R-Tenn), south manager for the Taft forces, claimed 18 delegates had pledged their votes to the Ohio senator. And Eisenhower's North Carolina manager, Sim A. D'Lapp, listed 10 delegates for Eisenhower, 13 for Taft and six uncommitted. Organization of the Tar Heel delegation was completed by the selection of four at-large delegates to the national convention. The delegation, as a body, will go to Chicago in July uncommitted. Two definite pledges of the four at-large delegates named here Tuesday went to Taft. One of the four is pledged to Eisenhower. Mrs. W. P. Few told reporters she had not pledged her vote. She was quoted as saying Taft representatives "tried to browbeat me by saying if I did not switch my support to Senator Taft I would not be elected as delegate at large."

However, Water Manager Ervin Leist told councilmen the city may already have the necessary equipment on hand. When Calgon, a chemical designed to eliminate rust from the city's water mains, was introduced here a new installation was needed. Leist said he believed the equipment used for introducing Calgon into the city's drinking water can also be used for the fluoridation program. The water manager added that if the city already has all of the necessary equipment available, it (Continued on Page Two)

Fliers Doze, Get Jailed By Reds

BERLIN, March 19 — (AP)—Three British airmen are back at their Royal Air Force camp here, convinced it's a good idea to stay awake on Berlin's elevated trains. They learned their lesson during almost a month in Russian captivity. The men were arrested in Germany's East Zone on Feb. 24. They apparently dozed and failed to get off at the last West Berlin stop.

Public Given Look-See At New Jet Plant

LOCKLAND, March 19 — (AP)—General Electric Co. opened a new jet center here Wednesday and showed parts of the closely-guarded plant to public inspection for the first time. Still kept secret, however, were sections of the plants serving as headquarters for a project to develop an airplane engine powered with atomic energy. General Electric contracted with the Air Force and the Atomic Energy Commission last year to develop a nuclear power-plant for an airplane to be built by Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp. Bypassing this project area, General Electric showed off: 1. New "floating" control room in which every phase of a turbojet engine's performance is recorded. 2. A new process of making better jet engines for the Air Force by standing the turbojets on end. 3. Fortress-like test cells, or testing rooms, designed to withstand jet-engine exhausts which temperatures to 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit. 4. New machines for precision manufacture of turbojet part.

Actress Says Trunk-Buyer Got Bargain

NEW YORK, March 19 — (AP)—You never know what you can pick up at an auction sale. Take the case of Hungarian Actress Francisca Gaal and her trunks. She left her trunks at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in July, 1940, when she returned to Europe. In a Manhattan supreme court action made public Tuesday, she said the hotel agreed to hold her 15 trunks. But the hotel sold them, because they were not claimed in five years. The trunks went at public auction. The Waldorf said they brought only $193.50, not even enough to pay for storage and advertising the sale. It filed a counter claim against Miss Gaal for $744.50 in storage charges. Miss Gaal sued the hotel for $35,000. She said whoever bought her trunks got a big bargain. Among other things, she said, they contained: 26 handmade nightgowns worth between $1,500 and $1,800; 18 evening gowns worth at least $2,200; six hats worth as much as $60 each and a pair of silk pajamas worth $300.

Authorities said more blood was found near the pump gun, while one empty shell was found on the ground nearby and an empty shell was discovered in the chamber of the weapon. Theorizing, officials said the local man, who worked as parts department head for Harden Chevrolet Co., might have been wounded while climbing the barnyard fence after having made one shot. Dunkle was rushed into Berger hospital for emergency treatment and later was taken to University hospital, Columbus. Attaches in the Columbus hospital Wednesday noon said the local man had been placed on the "danger" list. He is in room 783.

Solon Still Asks Bill For Nurses

WASHINGTON, March 19 — (AP)—Despite a committee's rejection, Rep. Bolton (R-Ohio) says she has not given up hope on legislation to relieve an acute nurse shortage. The House Interstate Commerce Committee Tuesday tabled her bill to provide federal grants for student nurse education and for construction of new or enlarged training schools. The bill was supported by many of the professional nursing associations. Mrs. Bolton said she plans to talk with committee members who voted against her bill and "see what can be done" about meeting their objections.

Party Follows Council Session

A birthday party—ice cream and cake—followed Tuesday's meeting of Circleville city council. The party was in honor of Councilman Joe Brink, who celebrated his birthday during the session. Following snatches of "Happy Birthday to you..." councilmen divided up a special cake baked by Mrs. Clyde Leist and topped it with ice cream furnished by Councilman John Robinson.

Lobby Control Is Ruled Out

Influence-Peddlers Cannot Be Published

WASHINGTON, March 19 — (AP)—The criminal penalties section and other vital parts of the federal lobbying act have been held unconstitutional by a special three-judge court.

The ruling which came Tuesday, was a victory for the National Association of Manufacturers.

The court's decision, coming on Capitol Hill amid many an investigation concerning corruption in government, is a strange paradox. Actually, lobbyists are influence-peddlers—in white tie and tails. That the court should give its approval to the offering of influence while congressional investigators condemn acceptance of same is not easily explained.

The special U. S. court threw out sections of the five-year-old law which:

1. Require all persons whose principal purpose is to influence legislation in Congress, and use contributions for that work, to report the contributions to the clerk of the House.

2. PROVIDES criminal penalties for violation of the law. The court held that the act's language did not adequately describe grounds for criminal prosecution.

The court also extended to the NAM a permanent injunction against prosecution under the act. The Justice Department is expected to appeal the decision directly to the Supreme Court. The case was argued first in 1949.

There was no ruling on a section requiring individual lobbyists to register with the clerks of the Senate and House and to file quarterly reports. The court said that section was not involved.

However, with the penalty clause removed, it appeared the effectiveness of the law is lost.

Government Awaiting Reports On 1952 Farm-Planting Plans

WASHINGTON, March 19 — (AP)—The government finds out from its crop reporters Wednesday just how far farmers plan to go toward meeting a record production goal of vital food, livestock feed and fiber crops this year.

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan has urged farmers to produce at least six per cent more crops and livestock products than they turned out last year, when production came close to the record set in 1948.

Brannan has placed special emphasis on big crops of corn and other livestock feed grains and on cotton. Reserves of these products have dwindled sharply since the outbreak of war in Korea because of heavy defense demands.

More feed grains must be produced if meat supplies are to be kept near present levels, he said.

Farm officials had fingers crossed on planting prospects because of a number of unfavorable factors. Labor supplies have gone down sharply as the armed services and city industries have drawn upon rural manpower.

Recent declines in farm product prices have been reported discouraging some producers. Farm prices have dropped about five per cent during the last two months and are nearly 10 per cent lower than at this time a year ago.

Furthermore, short supplies of some production materials, such as heavy tractors and some types of fertilizers, were said to be hindering farmers in some areas.

The government goals are merely advisory in nature. Yet they are designed to help guide farmers into a production pattern deemed beneficial to the national welfare.

Topping interest of officials as well as farmers will be the prospective production of corn. Brannan has set a corn goal of 3.3 billion bushels, an increase of about 435 million over last year.

Fluoridation Given Approval

might get Kiwanis to supply some of the fluoridation chemical.

STATING THE water department's stand on the question of fluoridation, Leist said:

"We do not recommend this be done. But we approve of it. If the people want it as a public service, we'll do it. If they do not want it, we won't do it."

"It will be five or six years," Leist added, "before we can tell whether we are getting results. It is not an overnight affair."

Councilman Boyd Horn queried Leist: "Are you gonna make the water taste a whole lot worse than it does now?"

"I was taking a bath the other night and the hot water smells like bleach."

Leist said the fluoridation chemical is added in such minute parts that the taste of the water will not be affected.

The water manager told councilmen the chemical would be introduced into the drinking water supply in one part per million parts of water.

HE ADDED that the city water already contains .3 parts per million, meaning that only .7 parts per million will have to be added to comply with the program.

Cost of the program here is expected to run about 60 cents per day, Leist said.

He said the chemical costs 18 cents per pound and the treatment would require a little more than three pounds per day.

Bitter Political Angles Revealed

WASHINGTON, March 19 — (AP)—Political bomb bursts rolled up and down Pennsylvania Avenue Wednesday as corruption probes within-probes veered off in unpredictable directions.

These developments stood out in the bitter election-year struggle between the Truman administration and its critics:

1. Newbold Morris, President Truman's specially appointed corruption sleuth, called on Attorney General McGrath (his own immediate superior) and 595 other top Justice Department officials to submit detailed data on the financial status of themselves and their immediate kin.

The questions asked ranged from stock market speculation and gambling to how many fur coats are now in the family compared with five years ago.

2. A HOUSE Judiciary Subcommittee set up in the wake of congressional disclosures of tax collection scandals asked President Truman for a look at the income tax returns of McGrath and 19 of his aides.

3. The same committee asked McGrath to appear for questioning March 26 in connection with the committee's own investigation of Justice Department affairs. Republican presidential possibility Harold E. Stassen has suggested an inquiry into reports that McGrath has become a millionaire in his 21 years in public office.

4. The Senate Judiciary Committee rejected Truman's request that Morris be given power to subpoena witnesses and require the production of records from non-government sources.

Instead, Chairman McCarran (D-Nev.) said his group had approved "a new approach" to the government cleanup problem. This would involve presidential appointment of a chief investigator and five assistants who—unlike Morris—would be subject to Senate confirmation.

Voters Write In Name; Taft Runs Poorly

was far down on the list of Minnesota write-in vote getters.

The seemingly more or less spontaneous upsurge for Eisenhower in Minnesota, on top of his solid defeat of Taft in last week's New Hampshire primary, indicated that five-star general threatens to overtake Taft unless there is an early reversal in trend.

It was the first time write-in ballots were a major factor in any Minnesota election.

Gen. Eisenhower's name was not on the ballot because the supreme court found filing petitions for him were defective. The write-in campaign started after an attorney general's ruling that such ballots must be counted.

The general's backers modestly appealed for 50,000 votes.

Eisenhower made his strongest showing in Minneapolis where he outran Stassen 32,292 to 19,277. This gave him a good chance to carry the two congressional districts in which Minneapolis is located. Most of the state precincts still to be heard are rural.

A write-in campaign for Eisenhower began only last Friday, following a state attorney general's ruling that such votes should be counted.

THE RULING turned an otherwise dull primary into a popularity contest for the nation's presidential timber.

Humphrey filed in the primary at the request of state and national Democratic leaders. The filing had the approval of President Truman. Humphrey has said he would turn over his delegation to Mr. Truman if the President decides to run again.

Tuesday's primary was to pick 25 of the state's 28 Republican delegates to the national convention and 23 of 26 Democratic delegates. Three more delegates for each party will be picked at state conventions.

All delegates are pledged to support their candidate until released by him or until his convention vote drops below 10 per cent.

Budgets Used More To Help Boom Business

Management Told Of Advantages In Group Preparation

NEW YORK, March 19.—Three budgets cause trouble.

1. The family budget you set for your wife. Often this she depresses her that she buys a new dress to regain her lost morale.
2. The federal budget the President sets before Congress. The resulting battle usually rages for months.
3. The company budget the finance officers set for the foremen. All too often this becomes a signal for undeclared warfare in the factory.

Budgets are being used more and more by business management. They aim at forecasting sales, costs, and the tax load, and then setting factory or department goals for production and operating rules for keeping manufacturing costs down.

Budgets are drawn up by corporation controllers — slide-rule boys who take the long, statistical view, and are concerned with keeping the company books in the black.

But budgets may backfire when workers, foremen and supervisors — the ones who make the company products — resent them as means of exerting management pressure.

One foreman in a plant using the budget system says: "I keep from showing these figures to my workers. If I give them the heat with this budget stuff they'll blow their top."

TO WHICH a company finance officer replies: "There is need for more pressure. I think man is inherently lazy. People need to be needed a bit, to make budgets more effective."

This problem of human relations is studied today in a survey of plants using budgets. The school of business and public administration of Cornell University made the survey for the Controllership Foundation, the research arm of the Controllers Institute, New York.

The report suggests much trouble could be avoided if factory supervisors were in on the making up of the budget from the start—and suggests putting this on a group basis, rather than individual conferences.

Human relations training for the budget people is also urged. "Show them the effects of pressure upon people," the report suggests. "Include discussions about the effects of success and failure."

Success for the budget man often lies in discovering weaknesses and telling the big boss. But the factory foreman gets a multiple dose of failure—the feeling of being wrong, and the knowledge that the big boss knows it.

Make the financial staff aware that human problems exist in a factory, the controllers institute study concludes, as well as being aware of how budgets can be used to control costs.

Pike County Man Convicted Again

WEST UNION, March 19.—Mason Farmer, 26, of Pike County stands convicted a second time of first degree murder, but the penalty this time will be life imprisonment instead of death.

Farmer was convicted more than a year ago of the slaying of Oliver Stayner of Peebles. The jury did not recommend mercy and he faced the death sentence until the Ohio Supreme Court ordered a retrial. The second trial ended in Adams County common pleas court Tuesday night with another conviction. That time, however, the jury recommended mercy which means a life term.

Use Of Potash For Hay Urged

COLUMBUS, March 19.—Greater use of potash will improve hay crops, an agronomist told farmers Tuesday at the 40th annual Farm and Home Week at Ohio State University.

"It still is not sufficiently understood by many farmers that big hay crops may take from three to five times as much potash from the soil as former grain crops have been taking," said Myron A. Bach-tell of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

Liquor Store Expansion Eyed

COLUMBUS, March 19.—A letting up of the steel shortage may make it possible to open new state liquor stores in Ohio.

Liquor Director William C. Bryant said Tuesday the steel shortage had prevented opening 10 new stores authorized by the last legislature. Although the state cannot build the stores, but must rent them, steel is necessary for shelves, bins, etc., Bryant explained. He declined to say where new stores would be located.

Railroader Dies

Lutheran Church Rite Is Planned

Sermon theme for mid-week Lenten service in Trinity Lutheran church is, "Walking With Him To The High Priest's Palace." The text is from St. Luke, the account of Jesus being taken to stand trial before the high priest of the Jews.

"It was on the walk to the palace that Peter followed afar off," states the Rev. George Troutman. "There has been much discussion through the years as to why Peter failed Jesus in His hour of need. The really important issue is why people are still failing to acknowledge Jesus, and following from afar."

Men of Trinity church will attend the service in a group, and as part of the service will sing the hymn, "The Men Of The Church For The Master."

Senior choir will offer special music and will lead in congregation singing.

REDS STRONGER IN KOREA

THAT COMMUNISTS have taken advantage of the long delay in arriving at a cease-fire agreement to build up their military strength is confirmed in an official announcement by Gen. James A. Van Fleet, just made public. He says the Reds now have an army of 900,000 men in Korea, but there is no indication of a Spring offensive.

General Van Fleet also gives assurance that while the Reds have superior forces, both ground and air, the United Nations force is sufficient to stop any attack. Half of the Communist troops are in the front lines, he adds.

Eventually the Reds may start something similar to the major drives attempted in April and May of last year, but General Van Fleet indicates the Allied command is hoping for just such a move.

"It would be a good thing," he explains, "if we could get them out of their foxholes and dugouts, mow them down the way we did last Spring. We have enough equipment, men and ammunition. We could do it just as effectively as we did the last time."

BOOKS AND INFLATION

NEWSPAPER CIRCULATION continues at an all-time peak, as does advertising lineage in the daily press; but a pall of gloom has spread over the book publishing business. People are not reading as many books as formerly.

The consensus in the book publishing business is that high prices—made necessary by high costs—are being resisted by the reading public. They say from $3 to $5 for a new work is more than some persons are willing to pay.

There are no imminent prospects of reductions in wage rates, cost of paper or taxes, the three main items of expense in the publishing business. Postage, too, has become a formidable item.

High costs are a problem to every business today, but the book publishing business has felt their impact more severely than some others.

These Days

The British Socialists, when they were in power, nationalized about 20 percent of the British economy. They did it openly and candidly; they told the British people with forthright honesty what they were doing and why. They called themselves Socialists and made no bones about it. For six years, the British people accepted Socialism and then, by a narrow margin, they turned out the Socialists and put in the Conservatives under Winston Churchill.

In this country, we have for almost 20 years been engaged in one form or another of socialization. We have called it the "New Deal," the "Fair Deal," and even "Private Enterprise." The theory has been that it is possible to sell the American people anything, as long as it is gaily packaged.

One of the services that has, in a measure, been socialized is electric power. No statement was made that socialization was intended; such slogans as "TVA" or "Flood Control" or "Rural Electrification" were employed. In this article, I am not going to discuss the virtues of the effort but the methods of accomplishment.

The assumption of the British Socialists has been that the British people are sufficiently mature to understand a program; the assumption of the American socializers has been that the American people, being politically immature, preferring circuses to ideas, need to be fooled into doing what is good for them.

The "Flood Control Act of 1944," which is a socializing measure, we are now told, requires that municipalities, other public authorities, and cooperatives created under Rural Electrification Acts, be given preference in the distribution of public-owned power facilities. However, we are not being told that what is meant by "public power" are those facilities built by army engineers as incidental to reservoir projects for flood control purposes.

Even the TVA was created to regulate the stream flow primarily for the purpose of promoting navigation and controlling floods. The production of electric power was to be incidental. Actually TVA is a socialized power project, competing with and tending to absorb privately-owned power. In the great debate on this subject, in which Wendell Willkie defended private power, the government denied the socializing character of TVA.

The question that arises here is the confidence of government in the people. If the government frankly admitted what it intended to do, the people might have supported the position of the government. But our politicians were taking no risks of that kind. They packaged their socialistic intentions in the beautiful colors of preserving private enterprise from the ravages of revolution.

They shifted the costs from the erection of government-owned power to such items as flood control, navigation, etc. The comparative costs between privately-owned and government-owned power projects are falsified by not including interest charges or the equivalent of federal, state and local taxes which the private company has to pay and the government project does not have to pay. The Treasury of the United States, and therefore the taxpayer, absorbs losses, if any, in the government project.

DEAD WEIGHT

by FRANK KANE

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE
THERE was a curtained recess in the back of the store. The young Chinese motioned for Liddell to follow him, led the way through into a small room beyond. At the far wall, he fingered the moulding, found a button that had been cleverly disguised in the wood. A door slid noiselessly open. They stepped into the narrow, dim passageway beyond, closed the door behind them.

Liddell stayed close to the Chinese as he led the way through the damp passage, came to a room where a group of Chinese were playing Chinese dominoes. They didn't even look up at Liddell and the guide walked through and entered another passageway. After a few minutes, they came into another room, evidently a catch-all for the shops above. Odds and ends were stored in confusion. Old furniture and crates of merchandise were piled to the ceiling.

The Chinese picked his way through the crates, slid open another wall panel, waited for Liddell to follow before he slid the panel shut behind them. They were in complete darkness now except for the pale glow of a flashlight the Chinese brought from his jacket pocket. Liddell followed him down a flight of rough hewn steps into another passageway that smelled of dampness. After a few steps they went down another flight of steps, evidently passing under some road above, Liddell realized. A hundred feet farther they started to climb a flight of steps to what appeared to be a blank wall.

"Beyond this I may not go," the guide told him. "To be found in the forbidden territory of a rival tong might mean death for me."

Liddell nodded. "What do I do?"

"I will arrange for you to enter."

the passageway to the gaming room. Beyond that is a passageway that leads to the place you seek."

"Okay. That's all I want," Liddell told him. "Thanks." "I hope you will continue to be thankful," the Chinese muttered. He ran his fingers over the edge of the wall. A whole section seemed to swing out of position, operated by an electrical mechanism that whirled as the door opened. "You will follow this passage for a hundred yards. There you will see the Fan Tan. The passageway lies on the far side of the tables. Goodbye, sir."

He turned on his heel, started back the way they had come. Liddell watched the glow of the flashlight receding until the dip in the passageway hid it from sight. Then, he stepped through the door, heard the whirr of the mechanism as it slid into place behind him, started up the passageway.

Soon he became aware of a low hum of conversation. A large room loomed at a bend in the passageway. He walked in.

There were two large tables, each presided over by a stickman armed with a bamboo stick and pot cover. Each corner of the table was marked in bright paint with a number from one to four. As the players would heap stacks of bills on a selected corner, the stickman would reach into a pot of beans at his elbow, spill a handful of the beans on the table, cover as many as he could with the pot cover. Then, using the bamboo stick, he cleared the surplus from the table. As soon as the uncovered beans were cleared off, he lifted the pot cover, counted the beans under it four at a time. The players on the corner represented by the number left were paid off at the rate of three to one.

The absorption of the players in the game was so intense that not an eye raised as Liddell walked in. He watched the play for a few minutes, then, spotting the entrance to the other passageway on the far side of the room, he elbowed his way through the players, headed for it.

He paused for a moment at the entrance to the other passageway. There was no light visible. He plunged in, felt his way along the damp wall. About a hundred feet from the Fan Tan room he started to climb sharply. A sickly sweet scent started to assail his nostrils and he fought an impulse to sneeze. Ahead he could see some evidence of light. He started toward the source of the light slowly, brought the .38 from his pocket, held it at readiness.

The only warning was the scraping of a heel behind him. He tried to spin in to meet whatever was coming, failed to duck the black-jack. It caught him a flush blow on the head, knocked him to his knees. He was dimly aware that as he fell his gun slipped out of his hand, skidded into the darkness of the corridor. He reached out, tried to grapple with his assailant, caught a pair of legs—sheathed in a skirt.

The sap landed twice more and he knew the power had flowed out of his hands. There was a series of flashing multicolored lights that merged into a crazy, blinding pattern.

The only sound was the deafening sob of someone breathing, the rushing of the blood in his ears.

The bright colors ebbed and flowed before his eyes until a flood of darkness came in to blot them out. Liddell wasn't even aware of the two men who grabbed him roughly by the shoulders, dragged him through the passageway into the room ahead.

news behind the news

WASHINGTON, March 19 — Without any authorization, appropriation or even the knowledge of Congress, American taxpayers are paying out more than $1 billion of Marshall Plan money to build a seaway-power development in Switzerland and France that is far more ambitious than the Panama Canal or the proposed St. Lawrence project.

Ironically, the French people have twice voted against this vast undertaking because they refuse to pay the heavier taxes required, as they now refuse to dig up extra money to finance the proposed European Defense Community headed by General Eisenhower.

SECRECY — So much secrecy surrounds the project at Washington that members of Congress cannot obtain details from the Economic Cooperation Administration or its successor, the Mutual Security Administration, or from Senate-House committees which have jurisdiction over foreign affairs and funds.

So Representative George Meader of Ann Arbor, Mich., an advocate of the St. Lawrence Seaway, recently informed his colleagues. They were astonished by his announcement.

Although it constitutes a long stride toward "state socialism" because of nationalization of power in France, and although Congress and federal courts have opposed Truman-Chapman moves for public ownership and operation in this field, the Franco-Swiss program had to be approved by ECA officials overseas and at Washington when Paul Hoffman headed that organization.

OPERATION — This "Genissiat project," as it is known, is made possible by expenditure of the "counterpart funds" accumulated abroad in the complex operation of the Marshall Plan. To explain how such a vast and costly overseas undertaking can be built without the sanction or even the knowledge of Congress, it is first necessary to tell how the little understood "counterpart fund" system operates.

Marshall Plan money does not go directly or freely to the foreign manufacturer who needs machinery, to the farmer who requires a truck or to the municipality which must replace a bombed-out waterworks. They benefit only indirectly. In many instances, the beneficiary does not know that he owes his improvement to American generosity.

'FUNDS' — The manufacturer, the farmer and the French city must pay for Marshall Plan equipment in the form of francs, or in the currency of the respective recipient countries. They turn their money over to their government or a government corporation, which handles the transaction. Upon receipt of necessary data, ECA, now MSA, then pays out the equivalent dollars to the American supplier. Not a cent crosses the ocean.

The money paid to the foreign government is known as "counterpart funds." We get no return or benefit from them. These deposits are used by the various beneficiary governments for "internal" improvements and developments. It is probable that many other projects too socialist or too expensive to receive Congressional approval have been given the green light by ECA-MSA agents abroad.

BREATH-TAKING — The scope and elaborate nature of the American-financed "Genissiat project" are breath-taking. Roughly, it will provide a 345-mile-long waterway from Lake Geneva, high in the Swiss Alps, to a point near Marseilles on the Mediterranean. The construction may ruin an old vaudeville joke, for Switzerland may now build a navy, possibly with American money.

The blueprints call for 22 dams, 66 power stations and eight locks. They will generate almost 14 billion kilowatt hours, as against only 12.6 billion on the proposed St. Lawrence. One lock will be 82

Child Study Club Hears Talk By Mrs. W. L. Cook

Mrs. Helwage Hostess To Group

"Johnny Will Solve His Problems," was the topic for the evening when members of the Child Study Club met for their regular meeting and to hear the talk given by Mrs. William L. Cook.

Mrs. Henry Helwage, 603 North Court street, was the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Ned Dresbach.

Mrs. Cook began, "Johnny will find a solution to each and every problem and some may be solved in an undesirable way. We must try to understand our children; then we must be willing to watch them open-mindedly, trying patiently to get acquainted, not once, but over and over again as new characteristics of body and spirit develop throughout growth."

Mrs. Cook spoke on various emotions in children, and their particular problems.

She added, "Are we modern parents, who believe in self expression a freedom for children, or old fashioned ones who admire discipline? Obviously let us hope that we are neither one nor the other, but both. There is no real freedom without discipline for either child, adult or nation. Desiring obedience, parents should never aim for implicit obedience. Routines should be flexible, rules should have exceptions, the doctrine of parental incapability of making mistakes should be discarded early."

She concluded with, "Parents have no more important duty than to understand the emotions of their children and to assist them in replacing unhealthy moods with those that are desirable and healthy. The healthy moods are typified by giving Johnny a sense of achievement, courage, a sense of belonging and understanding. Most children experience these healthy moods with little effort on the part of parents. "Above all, parents should not worry too much about Johnny's emotional problems."

During the business meeting a nominating committee was named to appoint a slate of officers for the coming year. They are Mrs. Joe Rooney, Mrs. Fritz Sieverts and Mrs. Charles Walters.

Announcements were made of the spring conference in Hebron, May 7 and the husbands meeting in April.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

World Today

By James Marlow
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON, March 19 — (AP)—Newbold Morris, the New York lawyer who came down here at the President's request to look for corruption in the government, is like a pigeon with a wing clipped off.

He can still hop around, but from now on he's a bird with a handicap. He made some angry noises at senators. They clipped him. They refused to approve subpoena powers for him. But he's had two strikes on him from the start.

As soon as it was announced early in February that Truman had persuaded this big, balding Republican socialite to dig around here there were hoots from Capitol Hill where a senate committee was investigating a ship-buying deal in which Morris's New York law firm was interested.

While he was still scurrying around, trying to pull an investigating staff together, he was called before the committee to testify. Some of the senators mused his hair. He mused theirs in one of the most sensational talking-back performances seen here in years. Among other things he said was that some of them had "diseased minds."

WHATEVER chance he had to get subpoena power from Congress went out the window right there. While senators sometimes criticize one another, and often rake a witness, they have little enthusiasm for a witness who does the same to them.

Ah, the emotional type, said some of the senators after Morris had had his say. Evidently not the kind of man to be entrusted with subpoena power, they said.

No one, except a grand jury or congressional committee, can compel anyone, inside or outside the government, to testify by subpoena.

na. Not even the President can do that.

Lacking such authority himself, the President can't give it to anyone else. Only Congress could give Morris subpoena power. So Truman asked Congress to do that.

Tuesday, Morris got his comeuppance. The Senate Judiciary Committee voted no. Although this was not the same committee whose minds Morris had discussed, the judiciary chairman, Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.), said almost precisely what members of that committee had said about Morris' emotional stability.

If he had the subpoena power, Morris could force any government official to appear before him and testify and produce records. And if an outsider was involved in some suspected shady deal with the official, he'd have to appear, too.

IN THAT way Morris could make an investigation, first hand. Lacking subpoena power himself, any time he has evidence of wrongdoing he'll have to get a U. S. district attorney to take the case to a grand jury which then could decide by itself to subpoena witnesses.

Now that the McCarran committee has reduced him to frying size, Morris will have to depend on a grand jury for any subpoena although that doesn't mean he can't carry on an investigation without the jury.

He is sending out questionnaires to thousands of government officials, asking direct questions about their income, and its sources, plus other questions. Any official refusing to answer presumably won't have a job, although this remains to be seen.

And, since Morris is the President's man, even though Morris lacks subpoena power, it seems likely that any government official called in for questioning could not keep his job if he refused to answer questions.

In suspicious cases Morris will be able to check income tax returns. Although he won't be allowed to get his hands on them unless the President, who has the power to do so, specifically lets him examine certain returns.

Morris himself told a news conference how he feels without the subpoena power: Like a man trying to ski with one hand behind his back. He can still ski, but it puts him off balance.

Rubber Workers Seek Pay Hike

CLEVELAND, March 19 — (AP)—The CIO United Rubber Workers' 200,000 members in 33 states and two Canadian provinces have been told their leaders want an "equitable" but unspecified pay raise for them this year.

The union's 200-member policy committee also decided here Tuesday that 1952 contracts should increase the $100-a-month pensions won two years ago. Last year the rubber workers—60,000 of whom are concentrated in the Akron area—settled for a basic hourly pay raise of 13 cents.

City Crossings To Be Repaired

Cincinnati's railroad crossings are expected to be smoothed out this Spring.

City councilmen were given assurance Tuesday night by representatives of both Pennsylvania Railroad and Norfolk and Western Railway that crossing projects will begin when weather permits.

Especially concerned with the crossing of both railroad at South Court street, councilmen were told Tuesday work will begin there as soon as weather is favorable for "hot mix" treatments.

CLEVELAND, March 19 — (AP)—When Mrs. Elizabeth C. T. Miller died May 28, court records show she left her two sons $1 each. The sons are W. Tyler Miller of Seattle and Otto Miller II of Napoleon.

But in December, Judge Nelson J. Brewer refused to probate the will, saying her signatures had partly been torn away. Pending appeal, the sons inherit the estate valued at $318,766.

New Northend Sewage Line Could Cost City $77,000

A proposed new sewage line in Cincinnati's north end was eyed by Cincinnati councilmen Tuesday night.

Prepared by Frank Baum of near Ashville, engineer for Burgess and Nipies of Columbus, the proposed plan was estimated at a cost of $77,140.

Baum told councilmen the proposed system allowed for a total of 7,780 feet of eight and 12-inch sewer, plus a lift station.

According to tentative plans, the new sanitary sewer could begin at North Court street and extend west to the Norfolk and Western Railway tracks on Hayward avenue.

CONNECTING with that line as it parallels the tracks would be lines on York and extended Scioto streets, Highland and Rosewood avenues.

Another part of the proposed plan was for a $25,000 lift station at about Hargus Creek, with a lift station feeder line continuing southward on Western avenue to Main street.

According to the proposal, 1,400 feet of 12-inch sewer could be installed on Hayward avenue from Court street to the tracks; 950 feet of eight-inch sewer on York and Scioto street; 850 feet of eight-inch line on Highland avenue; 900 feet of eight-inch line on Rosewood avenue; 1,900 feet of line from Hayward avenue to the lift station.

UnAmerican Panel Holds Long Parley

COLUMBUS, March 19 — (AP)—The Ohio UnAmerican Activities Commission conferred for five hours Tuesday with a Cincinnati man in a local hotel, a Columbus newspaper reported.

Ashville Man Ends Training

Private Raymond L. Smith, 24, of Ashville Route 2, recently was graduated from his 16-week basic training course with the 5th Infantry Division in Indiantown Gap, Pa.

His schooling included the use of light and heavy infantry weapons, how to live in the field, and combat tactics. Combat-toughened veterans of World War II conducted most of the training with the famed Fifth "Red Diamond" Division.

Pvt. Smith was employed by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. before he was called to the service. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Smith. He married the former Beatrice L. Maupin.

Home, Hospital To Be Outlined

Cincinnati's Home and Hospital Association will be outlined to members of Cincinnati Rotary Club Thursday during its noon luncheon in Elk's Lodge.

Speaker for the program will be Mrs. C. G. Shulze of 316 South Court street, president of the Association.

Street Light Is Approved

A new street light is to be installed at South Pickaway street and Second avenue.

Council approved the installation Tuesday night following a report by Councilman Harold Clifton.

Clifton, investigating a request made during last session of the council, said the intersection was in need of a light and suitable poles already are on hand for installation.

The councilman, however, blackballed Horn's suggestion that a street light midway between Pickaway and Court streets on Edison avenue be extended further into the street.

Horn had asked that the light, now jutting 10 feet into the street, be moved more into the center of the street to illuminate both sides. Council accepted Clifton's report.

The Ferris wheel was invented by G. W. G. Ferris and first used at the World's Fair of 1893 in Chicago.

Nation's Milk, Meat Supplies Show Declines

Laundry Detergent Found To Be Aid In Raising Chickens

CINCINNATI, March 19.—A Cornell University educator believes that the supply of milk and meat in this country isn't keeping pace with the increasing population.

Dr. Herrell DeGraff of Cornell's school of nutrition noted in an address here that the population is rising at the rate of 2,500,000 persons a year.

He stated, "meat consumption per capita was 17 pounds (11 percent) less in 1951 than in 1947, and milk consumption, expressed as total milk equivalent, was down last year 70 pounds (nine percent) from the postwar high in 1946."

"Meat prices in the butcher shop are reflecting not only the general inflation of our price level and the high purchasing power of consumers, but also the declining per capita supply."

DEGRAFF SPOKE at the seventh annual conference here of the Distillers Feed Research Council.

He said feed supplies are inadequate for present livestock numbers, and called upon suppliers of feed products and processors of feeds to bring about production of more foods from every tone of feed used.

This, DeGraff declared, "is the surest way to provide a better diet, at ever lower cost, to a growing population."

Another speaker was Charles P. Burr of New York, acting president of the Distillers Feed Research Council and manager of the grain products division, National Distillers Products Corp.

Burr reported that the council at present is studying or sponsoring 34 research projects at various universities, agricultural experiment stations and laboratories.

C. M. Ely, research scientist here with the National Distillers Products Corp., said that chickens grow faster and fatter when a laundry detergent is sprinkled in their feed—but the experts don't know why.

He advanced two theories: 1. Detergents restrain or destroy certain bacteria in the intestine of the chicken; 2. Their wetting properties cause more rapid assimilation of nutrients from the intestine.

Broilers fed a normal ration required 8.61 pounds of feed to achieve a weight of three pounds, he reported, while they used only 7.44 pounds of feed to reach three pounds when detergent was added.

Ely estimated that with some 700 million broilers produced in the United States annually, approximately 819 million pounds of feed could be saved in that time, on the basis of the results of the experiment.

Circleville's General Fund 'Hits Skids'

Councilman George Crites Tuesday night told Circleville's city fathers that their general fund was "hitting the skids."

Crites made the statement in presenting the report of city funds from March 1 to March 18, prepared by City Auditor Miss Lillian Young.

The report shows the general fund, the workable money fund of the city, was diminished by almost one-fourth during the period.

Ending February, council was told the general fund amounted to $16,069.35. During the first 18 days of March the fund had dwindled down to $12,811.40.

In all, the city has a balance of $90,831.58 in its coffers, having taken in a total of $6,482.03 to date in March while spending a total of $16,019.99.

COMPLETE REPORT of the city's business from March 1 to March 18, listing the fund, receipts, expenditures and balances in that order, is as follows:

General fund, $1,195.61, $4,452.76, $12,811.40; water works operating fund, $4,780.43, $8,147.22, $28,431.16; sewage disposal fund, $18.90, $1,245.13, $2,205.68; auto street repair fund, $320.05, $1,054.48, $334.84; gasoline tax fund, none, 1,126.38, $2,796.25; water works trust fund, $30, none, $1,475.00; police pension fund, $68.52, $3, $8,185.69; firemen pension fund, $68.52, none, $10,478.40; and water works improvement and extension fund, balance $24,113.16.

Is American Belly Laugh Out Of Date?

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK.—Is the belly laugh getting old-fashioned?

One way to judge a people is to read what they laugh at. And there are some who believe the American sense of humor is going downhill.

Many professional comedians complain the nation is developing an ulcer on its funnybone.

"People are too tense," they say. "People won't take the kidding they used to. They don't like to laugh at themselves any more."

An antidote to this trend in a tense political year is provided by Editor Donald Day in a book of selections from Will Rogers called "How We Elect Our Presidents." It is a handy little guide-book back to sanity for both candidates and voters who take the selves too seriously.

Looking back at these many years after his death on an Alaskan tundra, the humor of the gum-chewing cowboy still stands up well. But the cutting quality of his quips stands out more clearly now that the grin that went with them is buried. Will drew his lariat noose tight on a lot of nonsense in his time that needed strangling.

One wonders whether the statesmen of today could hold their tempers if they were the target of his artful tosses. Would they have held still for Rogers, who wrote:

"Ain't it funny how many hundreds of thousands of soldiers we can recruit with nerve? But we just can't find one politician in a million with backbone."

Nominating himself for vice president in 1924, Will said:

"Another big reason why I should be nominated is I am not a Democrat. Another still bigger reason why I should be nominated is I am not a Republican. I am just progressive enough to suit the dissatisfied. And lazy enough to be a stand-patter."

Will Rogers loved the circus atmosphere of political conventions and described politics as "the best show in America."

"I love animals and I love politicians, and I like to watch both of 'em play either back home in their native state or after they have been captured and sent to a zoo or to Washington."

Here are a few of his more memorable remarks, some of them as reasonable as ever:

"Ohio claims they are due a President as they haven't had one since Taft. Look at the United States, they haven't had one since Lincoln."

"Corruption has supplanted the tariff as a national issue. It's hard to get people to believe a thing is corruption when it's something that has always been going on. It's like the poor, it's always been with us."

"The more you read and observe about this politics thing, you got to admit that each party is worse than the other. The one that's out always looks the best."

"The Democrats take the whole thing as a joke and the Republicans take it serious and run it like a joke. So there's not much difference."

"Harding is sending out his speeches on the phonograph. Well, us public will have one consolation—a record when dropped breaks easily."

"Normalcy with me was when I owned nothing and paid no income tax."

What would Will have thought about television? Well, he wrote:

"Personally, I think the camera has done more harm for politics than any other one factor. Everybody would rather get their pictures in the paper than their ideas. What does the platform of a political party amount to compared with photograph?"

Council Faced With Proposal To Set Rates For Service

Water Company Seeks Pay For Tapping Mains

Operation Costs
City About $47,
Leist Reports

An ordinance proposing set rates for water company services was passed on to second reading by Circleville council Tuesday night.

The ordinance, submitted by the city water department, seeks to fix rates for three special services by the department.

First of the proposals is that a flat rate of $25 be set for installation of three-fourths inch lines from the water mains to cutoff valves at the curbs.

Second proposal is an additional charge for installation of water lines larger than three-fourths inches.

And third is a flat rate of $20 for customers who want water meters installed outside dwellings or business places.

WATER MANAGER Ervin Leist told councilmen the only new portion of the ordinance is the $25 installation fee.

"Actually," Leist said, "it costs us about $47 to tap a main and install a meter. In the past we have charged $20 for installing an outside meter, but nothing for tapping in."

"People from out of town have been amazed that there is no tap fee here," he added.

Leist added that many of the homes in the city have no basement, so the meter must be installed outside, protected from cold weather.

Second portion of the ordinance calls for the proposed $25 tapping fee, plus cost of installing line larger than the three-fourths inch minimum.

Reason behind the ordinance, Leist told councilmen, was that the water department is expected to drop about $10,000 behind in its revenue this year.

Leist said 67 taps were made last year with no charge to the customers.

Councilman Harold Clifton asked Leist then why the full amount of installation cost should not be charged, rather than just the tap fee and meter fee.

"If we don't try to eat too high on the hog we'll do better," Leist told him.

Another ordinance considered, and passed, during Tuesday's session was a $51.80 request made by Council Clerk Fred Nicholas for a new ordinance book. The ordinance was passed with rules suspended.

Ken Robbins To Head Elks

Kenneth Robbins, local attorney and one-time Pickaway County prosecuting attorney, will be installed April 1 as exalted ruler of Circleville Elks lodge.

Robbins was formally elected to the office in an annual election meeting Tuesday evening. He will succeed George K. Fishpaw as head of the 600-member order.

Other new officers elected were: Leading knight, David McDonald; loyal knight, Charles Will; lecturing knight, Paul Hang; secretary, J. R. Valentine; treasurer, Warren Baker; tyler, Robert Wood; trustee, Charles May; and alternate to the grand lodge, Fishpaw.

Income taxes in the United States were first authorized in 1913 by Constitutional amendment.

City Firemen Are To Get Pay For Rural Runs

Circleville firemen are to continue to receive extra pay for work on township fire runs.

Following a finding against the firemen last year for receiving money from the township fire association which should come into the city coffers, city blaze-chasers were disturbed because they would not get extra pay for extra work performed.

In Tuesday's session of city council, a delegation of men representing the township fire organization petitioned council to see that the firemen are paid for rural runs.

Council told the delegation the extra money from the rural calls still will have to go into the city treasury, although they added that some system should be set up so that firemen receive the extra pay.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said an ordinance assuring his firemen of the extra money is expected to be presented during the next session of council.

Eggs of the seahorse are carried by the male in a pouch on the underside of the tail, in which they are hatched.
